Did you ken it was the Barbie and Ken Party last night in our Kastle?

Well it was... and it started with some rather anxious staff waiting with an empty marquee wondering where all the scouts were for the party. Then in the distance we heard a rumbling of feet. It was the Scouts they had started a conga line in one Subcamp which snaked it's way through all the subcamps until it picked up some speed heading towards all the staff who looked like they might have to jump out the way.

Barbie & Ken Beach Party by the Mosh Pit Men

From the huge conga line to the very first 'Gimme, Gimme, Gimme' it was safe to say that it was a banging night. Pink hats, glitter and feathers, face paint, matching shirts and a giant inflatable flamingo were all on show! Staff's thought on The PARTY...Camp Chief Colin said that "The disco was amazing and properly jumping". D said "Brilliant, compared to my disco, where I just slept in my tent because I had no friends". R said "better than previous events as there is no 'rain of sweat' that used to appear with the old plastic tent and if you weren't careful it would drip into your mouth". Scouts thoughts on The PARTY "the disco was made better when the big dog made an appearance".

said E. The mosh pit was good apart from the sheer grossness of it all. C made a huge effort and dyed his hair pink on camp then wore a dress, whilst O stuffed his bikini top with a (hopefully) clean pair of socks. The night ended on a high with a rousing rendition of Loch Lomond, J said "the mosh pit for Loch Lomond will go down in history".

Lady Bletherdown has been eaves dropping around camp and passing on gossip in this very newspaper! But who is Lady Bletherdown and can we unmask them before they reveal what many want to stay hidden?

This intrepid reporter has turned detective track them down. The only information found out so far is they wear a yellow and black neckie and hide behind a hand fan. Some suspects were spotted near the Bakeoff Tent. Cake is the dastardly way to make almost anyone on the field open up and spill the tea. This reporter will keep you posted in the hope of revealing the blabbermouth behind the fan.

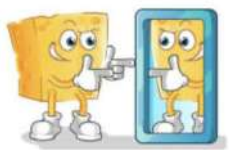

Dearest gentle reader it has come to this authors attention that honesty is alive on the Field, one young man was so aggrieved at lifting two items from the Scout Shop in error that he returned the extra to relieve his conscience. Rumour has it that the wifi has been a bit slow owing to someone downloading all their favourite 'Bridgerton' episodes, I do hope that they enjoyed their viewing? As things have got busier today this author has noted that there is a particular group of people who are worshipping all things muddy and seem to be attracting a merry band of followers. A rumour has reached my ears that there may be a blossoming romance on one of our sub camps already, P & D may have shared a wee private moment? Until next time

Lady Bletherdown

Below, you'll find a crazy story, told by the Maryland Contingent, about our trip to Edinburgh, Scotland.

Prior, we spent our whole morning touring through Edinburgh Castle. The place was incredible for us and after the tour, we decided to stop for dinner at a place called the Filling Station. After we left, we headed to our next destination (another tour). While we were waiting at the plaza, I saw someone that looked a bit like Captain Man (from the show Henry Danger). I jokingly told one of my peers that the man I saw was actually him and he began looking back and forth. When he said "Oh my gosh, are you serious", I said that I was just kidding, as I actually believed that was someone else. Fast forward three minutes, I got a closer look at the lookalike. I began thinking "Wait a minute, is this the real deal?" I got in even closer, and began pulling up an image on my phone. I looked back at him, looked at the image, and looked back at him once more. I was determined this was him. Four of my buddies followed me as we made our way over to him (we began noticing that he was taking pictures with fans). I asked him "Are you from Ray Manchester?" (his character from the show). He said yes, and began telling us his real name (Cooper Barnes). He noticed that some of us had Scouting apparel on and asked if we were scouts. We said we were and he began reciting the Scout Law. We joined in and progressively got louder as we made our way to Reverent. We asked if we could take a couple photos with him as a group and he said yes. After that, we said our goodbyes and went off back to our tour.

2024 Subcamp Survey reveals SHOCKING results!

Our reporters here at Kastle Kurrents kicked up a fuss about the Blair Atholl 2024 sub camps. We asked all of our interviewees to rate their sub camps by three different scales, Theme, Leadership and quality of camp life. The results yielded were truly jaw dropping!

On average sub-camp leaders received an unexpectedly high rating of 9.3/10 on average! As for sub camp theme, a not to shabby 7.4/10, and finally for camp quality of living, an astounding 9.2/10.

These results shocked all of our reporters here at Kastle Kurrents as these figures suggest that scouts are actually enjoying themselves here at Blair 2024 and this projects the optimism to actual good things happen scale SKY-ROCKETING!

Now for the serious part, after our many interviews, we have created the final tier list (IN DECREASING QUALITY) for Blair 2024 sub camps:

A	MACDONALD
B	MACLEAN
C	ROBERTSON
D	MURRAY
F	MORRISON

Surveys were going to be taken to score friendship and social life, however, the ratings which came in were way too big and crashed our computer! Essentially throwing this entire survey into uncertainty.

We also all asked our participants what they say while walking away from an explosion and here is our personal tier list of all that were suggested:

V	"That wasn't me!" - Ally and Eilish
T	"Let's do more!" - Kai and Daniel
S	"Bombaa!" - Ashley and Chloe
A	"Help!" - Charlie and Miles
B	"Mic-Drop!" - Makayla and Olivia
C	"Goodbye"- Lucia
D	"Am I dying?"- Eline
F	"I'm deaf and blind, also was that an earthquake I just felt?" - Me

DO'S AND DON'TS OF CAMP SHOWERS

You would think the rules would be simple for how you should act in the showers, but some people are struggling to understand. (not to name names!) So we have made this very handy list of Do's and Don'ts!

- Don't go in with other people – Katie
- Don't poo in the shower(or pick it up with your top with your name on it, like last Blair)
- Don't use staff showers – Zara
- Don't forget your towel
- Don't lean on the walls
- Don't lick the walls
- Don't put clean clothes on the wet floor
- Don't pee in shower – Kenny, Stewart
- Don't leave your dirty pants hung up - Amy, Maclean
- Don't take too long or people will start knocking on your door- Paige, Freya, Maclean
- Don't wear socks in the shower- James, Erin, Sophie, Noah
- Don't leave your shampoo behind – Rory
- Don't go in after Atholl experience - Mathew, Morrison
- Do wear shoes – Zara
- Do "Be quick, finish fast" – Jay, Morrison
- Do lock the doors!!! – Fraser, Maclean
- Do be quick, take other peoples time into consideration – Arron ("west is best")
- Do bring sandals
- Do clean drain out once your done, grass, hair, etc.
- Do ACTUALLY wash – Kenny, Stewart
- Do go early, beat the queues
- And Finally If you're stuck in a queue chat to people to pass time and make new friends – Welfare team

I've dragged my wee Krystal Ball out o the cupboard for ainither year and blawn the dust awf. As the red glittery mist clears I can see an army of little orange people with chocolate bearing doon on one of our subcamps and a row of wee hooses for them on the next. Michty me there's an awfy noise coming oot the ball? Sounds like rock music joined with the clacking of clapperboards. I can see a wee man zooming about in there too, hope he doesn't crash! Right I'm off for some slab cake....

See ye aboot soon Mystake McLeod

Summer Word Search

Summer is one of the four seasons and comes after Spring and before Autumn. It is the hottest season of the year. The Eiffel Tower grows in summer. On a hot day the iron from which it is constructed expands so much that the tower can rise by 17cm!!
